A. CONTEXT & RATIONALE

Cameroon's youth face a complex landscape: rising rates of school delinquency, moral erosion, digital misinformation, and a growing disconnect between young people and the civic institutions meant to protect them. At the same time, this generation is more connected, more vocal, and more capable of driving change than any before it.

Amplify: Youth Peace in the Digital Age emerges from this tension. It is a youth-led response to the question: what does peace look like when young people are the ones building it — in their schools, on their screens, and in their communities? It is also Cameroon's answer to a global call. As an official action of the 13th International Youth Conference (IYC13), organized under the theme Innovative Diplomacy: Youth at the Forefront, Amplify places the voices of Cameroonian youth on an international platform, demonstrating that innovative diplomacy does not begin in foreign capitals: it begins here.

B. OBJECTIVES

- Mobilize youth aged 13–35 across Cameroon around a collective commitment to peace, civic responsibility, and digital citizenship
- Gather a minimum of 2,000 signatures on the Amplify Peace Pledge as a measurable record of youth engagement
- Create a high-quality, documented youth action that contributes directly to the IYC13 Live Impact Report
- Build the capacity of 40+ young volunteers through hands-on event management, facilitation, and outreach experience
- Establish a foundation for sustained youth-led peace advocacy through the Amplify Peace Pledge Drive

C. TARGET AUDIENCE & OUTREACH STRATEGY

Amplify targets youth aged 13–35 across Cameroon and internationally. The outreach strategy operates on two levels:

- School partnership network: physical visits to 50 –150 secondary schools and universities across Yaoundé and other towns, leaving pledge forms, posters, and partnership agreements. Schools commit to mobilizing students through their student offices and social media channels.
- Digital & diaspora outreach: the online session and digital pledge are open worldwide, reaching Cameroonian diaspora communities and international youth.

The Amplify Peace Pledge Drive is the central mobilization engine. Schools whose students participate most actively will be publicly recognized on Amplify’s social media platforms
